our National Declaration of Independence our State is cordially invited to join with her sister States in the celebration of that grand and important event which made a nation of freemen. The history of the rise and progress of North Carolina can never be buried by the revolution of time. North Carolina participated in the first Continental Congress that assembled in Carpenter's Hall, in the city of Philadelphia, in September, 1774, for the purpose of discussing morrow (the first of January) all that certain grievances imputed against

North Carolina participated in the common dangers, privations and sufferings through the Revolutionfor assault with a deadly weapon, 10 ary War for the establishment of our independence, and in the common benefits and blessings of its mighty achievement.

North Carolina participated in the Convention at Philadelphia in 1787, which framed the Constitution of the United States of America, "in order to form a more perfect Union, estab-lish justice, insure domestic tranquillity, provide for the common de-fence, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity. North Carolina performed a noble and inportant part in the long and perilous struggle which resulted in the formation of the Union; she still retains a lively interest in its welfare and preservation, and it would not seem to be in accordance with her early revolutionary history for her now to fail to take any part with her sisters in the Centennial Celebration of the Anniversary of American Independence. Thomas Jefferson said "no State was more fixed or forward in the cause of independence than North Carolina." If she was the foremost then, let her not be a laggard now, when her attachment to liberty remains as firm and strong as it was one hundred years ago.

THE WEEKLY NEWS is the cheapest paper published in North Carolina. It is only one dollar per year, postage paid, contains 32 columns of plain printed news from every section of the country, and important advertisements. Always Cash.

THE Editor of the News is absent in Wilmington, which will account for any want of interest in the editorial columns.

According to the Washington dispatches the Executive Mansion has been closed until after the beginning of the new year. Business in that quarter is at present rather dull. Certain court transactions in St. Louis, Chicago and elsewhere have somewhat depressed the peculiar commerce of which it has been for some years the centre.

A NUMBER of those who were loudest in their disapproval of the selection of Mr. Morrison as chairman of the Congressional Ways and Means Committee, and who hoped by their clamor to drive him from that position, now that they find that he is determined to stick, are beginning to see that he is really the very man for the place.

It is now thought that the expenses of the Prince of Wales' visit to India will be so much larger than the estimates that a supplementary grant will be needed to meet them. The correspondent of the London Times writes: "The estimates for travelling in India have been justifi- rate them from the luxuries and ed, and Greece and Egypt have been | take them without extravagance. down for them, but the run on the Prince's 'tosheekhana,' or treasure room, has been very much more heavy than was expected, notwithstanding the extreme care and pains of the officers charged with the distribution; and on this head alone, it is said, there will be a large deficit."

THE planters of Burke county. Georgia, recently met at Waynesboro' and resolved that, of the three classes of labor, the wages system was the best; that the share system that the tenant system should be abandoned. They also resolved that farm labor in a cotton country is necessarily of twelve months' service. and should be so engaged. The giving of Saturday as a rest day was pronounced mischievous and demoralizing, and so was the practice of certain merchants in purchasing seed cotton. They then pledged themselves not to plant over fifteen acres of cotton to the plow, or pay more than sixty dollars a year to a field hand.

ATTORNEY General Melton, in a report to the General Assembly of South Carolina, says of W. J. Whipper, one of the recently elected Judges whom Governor Chamberlain refused to commission, that he is a defaulter to the amount of about $12,000 to the sinking fund, proceeds of sales of public property collected by him whilst in public office, and not paid over to his successor. Action has not been brought to recover this fund, because the defendant is without property to respond to any portion of the judgment. The Attorney General says the Philadelphia Ledger, seems to have temporarily forgotten that there are two kinds of Courts, one of which is largely used for the trial of criminals having persons, but no property, that may be made to respond to the judgment of the Court.

A CORRESPONDENT of the New York Herald has interviewed Colonel Jovce, the former leader of the great Whiskey Ring, who is now incarcerated in the Missouri Penitentiary to serve out a sentence of two years and nine months. The correspondent endeavored to obtain from Joyce the secrets of the Ring, many of which are supposed to be locked up in his breast, but he found the prisoner determined to keep secret whatever information he may possess. During the conversation, however, he intimated his belief that Grant would "make a soft bed for Babcock," and said, while apparently ruminating to himself, "I could shake 'em up if I wanted to, but I had rather wait." He is writing a book of his life, in which he takes great pride. The correspondent thus speaks of the personal appearance of this man :

"Joyce, when he was brought out into the Warden's room, presented certainly an interesting appearance. He is a very good looking young man of about thirty-two, well built, with broad shoulders and a muscular face, with very boldly cut, marked features. The upper portion of the face is very broad, while the lower is very narrow, and the sharp, long chin, the aquiline, full nose, and the keen, expressive, gray eyes, arched by heavy, dark eyebrows, as well as the heavy, dark moustache that shades his full lips, give him the look of a man of great intelligence, as well as decided individuality. His well shaped head rests upon a heavy, fleshy neck. His skin looks tanned, but the face has otherwise a look of well fed comfort, which indicates that he does not lack abundant and wholesome nourish-ment. He wore a broad-brimmed black felt hat, which half concealed his forehead, and the regulation striped suit of the ordinary convict. The jacket being open he exhibited a fine linen shirt of snowy whiteness, ornamented with a pretty, neat shirt stud. He did not look at all like a convict, but more like a man who out of pure caprice had chosen to assume an odd, quaint garb.'

HOW TO LIVE. The Baltimore American makes

the following very sensible and appropriate remarks to our people : "In the present depressed state of our industries and commercial life there is one subject that deserves a large share of attention, and that is -individual economy. It cannot be denied that no cause has so much contributed to bring about hard times as our general extravanagce, both public and private, and nothing will so much aid to relieve them as to remove the cause. We spend more money for the same amount of happiness than any other people Our homes, our food, our dress, our pleasures, and our minor habits and customs, in nearly all respects call for vastly more resources to keep them up than those of any other land; in fact they could not be maintained in any other country at all. As a result of this, we find ourselves in such stringent times as these, when we cannot get large wages or make great profits, suffering for the comforts of life because we have not learned to sepa-In other countries the times are never better than they are here, and the people never make more money than we make now. But the difference is that the life of the people elsewhere is adjusted to a smaller amount of means, and the facilities for getting such comforts as are indulged in by all are regulated with a view to greater cheapness, there being less waste by the consumer. and less profit to the dealer. Our people are generally still making enough money to live comfortably. If, therefore, we adjust our expendiwill do if properly supervised, and tures to more economical customs. we will still get along with all our former comforts. The hard times will have been a benefit to us if they LICANS." A correspondent of the Charleston News and Courier thus forcibly assails the character of the recently elected Radical Judges in that State, which act has been condemned by the Republican press of the North as an outrage of the most damnable character. Says the correspondent:

" Let it be heralded forth, from one end of the State to the other, that Swails, the Radical mulatto, Pennsylvania carpet bagger, who disgraces the good old Country of Williamsburg as its pretended Senator, said the other day in the election of a judge for the third circuit: "Mr. President, as I see it is the intention to put none but true and tried Republicans on guard, I change my vote from the Hon, B. F. Whittemore to the Hon. F. J. Moses, Jr."

Moses a true and tried Republican! As Moses is a thief and a liar, and blackguard, and a gambler, and a debauchee, (and, according to Swails, these characteristics constitute true Republicanism) so it is to be presumed Swails is a true Republican of the same stamp fit only for the Peniten-tiary. We hope the day is not dis-tant when we shall see these three rue and tried Republicans occupying the same cell in the Penitentiary, with a chain around the neck of each, and all fastened together, with a fifty pound cannon ball to the neck of each of them. Whether they will be then true or not, they will, at least, have been "tried" and convicted, and punished as their crimes demand." The Washington Tribune gives the following pen portraiture of Moses :

"The appointment of the notorious thief, Moses, as one of the Judges of the highest Court in South Carolina, illustrates the beauties of negro supremacy in an extraordinary way. Here is, without exception, one of the most infamous characters in the whole country clothed with Judicial robes by a party claiming to be the party of moral ideas and lofty principles. The appointment of Moses to administer justice is more disgraceful than would be the election Tweed as Governor of New York. A man that should be breaking stone in the penitentiary of South Carolica has no business to preside over its Courts. His place in a Court of justice is not on the bench, but in the dock?

[Washington Correspondence St. Times.] SENATOR GORDON.

His Good Example in Refusing to

The country is already quite pleas-antly familiar with the name of John B. Gordon, of Georgia, erstwhile & fighting lieutenant general of the Confederacy, and now a thoroughly reconstructed Senator of the United States. Perhaps it is too much to say that in the character of John B. Gordon is embraced more true manhood and genuine honor than can be found in any other man holding important position in the government; but it is not too much to say that in these particulars he is not excelled by any citizen of the United States either in public or private life. Gen. Gordon is not rich. On the other hand his circumstances are so moderate that he finds it necessary to cut his corners pretty closely to avoid a deficit in his domestic accounts at the end of each year. Largehearted and hospitable enough to spend the income of a duke if he en-joyed it, this gallant gentleman is compelled to restrict his impulses of generosity to the limits of very little, if anything, beyond his senatorial salary. He has a large family, the eldest of whom, Hugh Gordon, is a young man of much promise and great ambition, now engaged in the study of the law here in Washington. The necessity of strict econo my under which his father la is a serious embarras to the young man, and compel him to forego many of the common-est pleasures of life. Last year the sergeant-at-arms, Mr. French, a gentleman whose excellent impulse have trequently suggested to me that he was in the wrong pew politically, and ought to join the balance of good fellows who make up the bulk of the Democracy, learned of the embarass ments under which young Gordon abored. Appreciating the sterling qualities of the young man, and full of a praiseworthy desire to assist him, no less for his own than for his father's sake, Mr. French went outside the regulations of his party caucus and tendered to Hugh a position in the Senate chamber, which would pay about $1,800 a year, and the duties of which could be discharged without seriously curtailing his opportunities for prosecuting his legal studies. The young man was about to accept of the position, when Senator Gordon learned of it. The senator immediately sought Mr. French and told him he could not consent to the arrangement. God bless you Mr. French, for your kind intentions," said the senator, "but I can not consent to have my son pensioned on the government. Do not imagine that I object to the arrangement you have been so kind as to offer upon merely partisan grounds. It is not because this position is offered to my son by a Repub-lican officer that I object to his acceptance of it. I object because I am opposed utterly to the doctrine that a senator's sou should be entitled to any consideration, and because I can ot sanction any approach, however indirect or remote, to nepotism. My own resources, though limited, are sufficient to enable my son to com-plete his studies, and if by reason of my comparative lack of resources he should be compelled to observe econ-omy and frugality, it will be no disadvantage to him in the long run.

So the appointment was with-When Mr. Fitzhugh was chosen loorkeeper of the House, it occurred to him that he would now have an opportunity to reciprocate in part at least the many kindnesses of which he had been the reciptent at the hands of his old Confederate commander, Gen. Gordon in times past and gone. He knew of the situation of young Hugh Gordon, and also of the fact that the senator had objected to his acceptance of the appointment from Mr. French. But he thought the same objection would not prevail as to positions within the gift of the Democratic party, especially since in this case the place is not in the branch of the government with which the Senate is connected. So Fitzbugh tendered Hugh Gordon one of the best places in his gift, and the young man asked his father' consent to accept it. "Write immediately to Col. Fitzteach us to adopt cheaper ways of hugh my son," replied Senator Gordon, "and thank him for his consideration. And say in addition, that by reason of circumstances over which you have no control it would be improper for you to accept any appointive office under the suspices of any political party. And to settle this matter once for ali, let it be under-stood that so long as I hold a position of trust and influence by virtue of the suffrages of the legislative representatives of the people of Georgia, you cannot accept any appointment whatever. If the people of Georgia should ever require your services they will signify the fact by electing you to the position they may desire you to fill. But the fact that they have chosen me to represent them in the Senate does not signify that they require your services in any capaci-So this appointment was declined. I repeat that in this era of scramble for office and of shameless nepotism in all branches of the government, this little episode in the career of the Georgia Senator stands out in bold and striking relief, and should be set up as an example for all our public servants to imitate. Men who confronted the division that Gordon led twelve years ago do not need to be told that he was a soldier fit to rank with Lannes, Soult or Massena. And those who have been honored by his acquaintance since do not require as-surance that he is a man and a gentleman of the purest and noblest type extant in the present or of record in history. But as there are a great many people in the North who never resisted his charge in battle or grasped his hand in social intercourse, have recited this little anecdote that they may form some idea of the character of the man. I sometimes wonder at the flexibility of these political institutions which seat men like John B. Gordon alongside of John Logan and Simon Cameron, and John Sherman and Hipple Mitchell, and Spencer and John J. Patterson, representing, as they do, all grades of human depravity, from dishonesty to felony, and all stages of human

to the infamous. Hot drinks should be avoided in day time during cold weather, as they have a tendency to weaken the lungs and affect the throat. Take Dr. Buil's Cough Syrup for all cases of coughs, colds, and hoarseness.

Little Tragedy—A Lady Throws Herself Into a Well—Love the Cause.

We are informed by a reliable correspondent of the following sad affair which occurred in Gates county a few days since: A gentleman of high respectability (whose name we with-hold) recently became enamored with a young lady (Miss Riddick), both of the above county, who made known his intentions of matrimony, which was against the wishes of the young ady's parents. The young lady quietly persisted against the objections of her parents, and they, to prevent the young gentleman's visiting the family, positively forbade his attentions in the future. Time rolled on, and the young couple still hoped for a change of the parent's wishes. No change was wrought upon them how-ever, and the devoted lovers were firmly prohibited from marrying, or keeping the society of each other.— Notes and letters are said to have passed from time to time, but like Romeo and Juliet, fate seemed to decree that death only should break their woven and affectionate ties. Consequently one day last week while the mother of the young lady was busy with her domestic affairs, her daughter was missed, and no one could tell her wheareabouts. A smothered scream or two was heard, a search was made, and it was dis-covered that she had thrown herself in the well, to shorten her life. The orrowing and frightened mother creamed and attracted the attention of some gentlemen who chanced to be near, and with their assistance ceeded in drawing her from the terrible pit. Two physicians were immediately called, who gave all attention in their power, but it is stated that she can scarcely recover. Sh was living when last heard from, and that is the most that can be said .-Murfreesboro (N. C.) Enquirer.

" Facts are Scubborn Things."

Thousands of human beings are yearly borne on the swift current of

sease down to the grave, just because they do not possess a sufficient knwoledge of themselves. A man meets his neighbor, and the first question is, "How are you?" or "How is your health?" The reply frequently is, "Oh I am well, with the exception of a cold." Most persons lightly recent lightly regard a cold. Reader, do you know that a cold is one of the most dangerous of malladies? A cold not only clogs up the pores of the entire system, and retards circulation, but it is productive of Catarrh, which is quite apt to lead to Consumption. "Oh," you say, "it is nothing but a cold in my head" True; but that cold is really a mild form of Catarrh, and if not arrested in its course will become chronic. Catarrh is one of the most disagreeable, offensive affections in the catalogue of diseases The passage to the nose is obstructed, the sense of smell impaired, and there is a disagreeable sensation of pressure in the head. In the more advanced stages, there is a discharge having an offensive odor. If the disease be allowed to continue in its course, thick, hard incrustations will form in the head, the bones of which sometimes become softened and break away in pieces. Why will persons continue to suffer from such an annoying, disgusting disease, when they can just as well be cured of it? Dr. Sage's (atarrh Remedy will cure the worst forms of Catarrh; in fact, it is the only sure and safe remedy which has yet been offered to the public. Many harsh, irritating preparations may for a time, relieve the urgency of the symptoms, but they do not cure the disease. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy is soothing and healing in its effects. and when used with Dr. Pierce's Nasal Douche, according to directions does not fail to effect a cure. Sold by all Druggists.

The Rev. John Glendenning, formerly of Jersey City, has caused the the breaking up of the Henry (III.) church. He asserts his innocence, but the manner in which he traduces the character of men who are opposed to him, and the fact that he charges the dead Mary Pomery with wholesale wickedness, proves that John Glendenning is not, to say the least, a Christian gentleman.

ury Department, &c. WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—The committee consisting of Hon. D. S. Pratt, commissioner of Internal Revenue, D. W. Mahon, 1st Auditor, J. H. Robiusen, Assistant Audttor of the Treasury, and John W. Porter, acting chief clerk of the Treasury Department, submitted their report to the Secretary of the Treasury yesterday in the matter of the Witowski and Sugg Fort claims. The commit-te find both claims fictitious and fraudulent, and that they were passed through the offices of the third Auditor and second Comptroller without such examination as the law requires; that the third Auditor and Messrs, James F. Allen and George Doolittle, clerks in his office, and the cond Comptroller, his Deputy, Mr. Cartis and Mr. John C. Wilson, a c'erk in his office, had failed to give such claims the proper examination, a d are therefore chargeable with culpable negligence. The Secretary of the Treasury submitted the report to the President this morning, and on his return to the Department, showed it to Messrs. Broadhead, Rutherford and Curtis who promptly agreed to tender their resignations. port was also shown to the third clerks above named who will sever their relations with the Department in like manner. Comptroller Broadhead has been in the office a long time. Third Auditor Allen Rutherford was appointed from North Caro lina three years ago
In view of the labor and the incurred by Treasurer of the United States, and other independent treasury offices by the receipt and collection of drafts and checks by them from National Banks, public officers and other parties having payments to make into the treasury, the Secretary has ordered these officers that he thinks it better they should receive in all official transac tions only the lawful and proper moneys of the U.S. as provided by law and regulations there under This will prevent National Banks from paying their semi annual duties, banks and other parties from paying for fractional currency, and llectors of Internal Revenue from making deposits in the office mentioned by means of draftsand checks, thus doing away with a practice which seems to have crept into government transactions without any special auhtority of law orregulations and which has become a burden to the officers who voluntarily undertook to collect for parties the checks and drafts transmitted for the purpose of making the payments men-

Report of the Spencer Investigating Committee-that Individual shown in no very Enviable Light.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., Dec. 30.-The Spencer investigating committee reported in the Senate, which was crowded with spectators. The reading of the report occupied ninety minutes and was listened to with profound attention. In summing up, the committee say: "He, Spencer, during the election of members of the Legislature, used means to secure to himself their votes, abused the army, the Post Office and Internal Revenue Departments of the Government, he ou ht the evils of war uron the people, caused them to flee their homes an abstain from voting, he prostiuted his office to the purpose againing and briberies to secure votes for his re-election, he corrupt the United States officials for whom he had procured Federal apgreat's of removal from office some of them to committerimes to obtain bim in his election, he caused men to be appointed to sinecure positions in the Custom House, Post Offices and Revenue officers with intent and understanding that while in office they would not be required to render service to the government, but would get their pay, and while so paid they would employ their time on secur-ing pledges of votes and influence to re-elect him to the U.S. Senate ; he paid and caused to be paid money to embers of the court house assembly to secure their votes; he paid and caused to be paid money to members of the Legislature to defeat a quorum at the capital and thereby prevent the election of a Senator by that body and his most trusted agent, J. J. Higgs, caused a member of that body to be drugged and almost killed to prevent his attendance, he dealt in S. offices as in merchandise to secure money and gain votes for Senator; his managers with his concurrence caused a State Senator for a money consideration to break his pledge of honor to another Senator, having pre-arranged the scheme. thereby to secure a seat in the U.S. Senate; through his said managers procured the presiding officer of the Senate to connive at this fraud and to rule on violation of all parliamentary law and usage so as to unseat a Senator elected by the people, and seat in his place a partizan Spencer who was not elected by the eople, and who held no certificate of election; be caused to be filled the lobby of the Senate with armed retainers to overcome by he tors and sustain and violence what he had achieved by fraud; he used his power and influence and the money he controlled through his position as Senator to debauch men in office, so that in his conduct he was working evil continually.

The report was received and ordered to be printed with evidence, and the Committee given time to prepare a memorial to the U. S. Senate against Spencer's further occupancy of a seat in that body. The report was signed by the whole Committee, on which both parties were repre-

A Terrible and Destructive Tornado in Kentucky-Loss of Life.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 30 -A terrible tornado passed twelve miles East of Hickman, Kentucky, Sunday evening; sweeping down whole forests in its pathway. The force of wind was so great that persons can now walk over the trunks of trees where before was the dense woods. Twelve dwelling houses and barns blown down, some shattered into tragments, the inmates barely escaping with their lives. Worm fences from the bottom rail all lifted and blown away. At Mayfield two persons were crushed to death under the ruins of houses; a negro killed out right at another point; a man named Chucks and a Miss Seary killed, and her sister was badly crippled. The hotel at Reelfoot Lake was blown down, the guests barely escaping. Some were badly bruised by flying timber. Death and destruction their trace along the entire track of the tornado which made a noise heard
